INFORMATION

The harmony between culture, tradition and technology

São José dos Campos is a city that combines culture, tradition and technology. In the urban core are located federal scientific research institutes, cutting-edge technology companies and most of them in areas of environmental protection.

It is the main municipality in the Region and the most important aeronautical and aerospace hub in Latin America.

Hospitable, the city welcomes migrants from all over, many of whom participate in the local growth.

Strategically located between São Paulo and Rio de Janeiro and connected by modern highways and the airport, the city is very close to the beaches, the mountain region and other tourist destinations in the valley.

Between an hour or two by car, it is possible to reach the beaches.

It is highlighted in the country due to the potential for business, sport, hospitality and commerce.

This can be seen in the enormous flow of people who visit São José daily on visits to shopping malls, industrial and technological centers and technical or higher education educational centers
